The New Providence Memorial Library will host a Teen Job-Hunting Panel Discussion, featuring NP business owners who hire local teens. This event is open to all local teens (and their parents) who wish to learn more about how to find the right job, how to hone interview skills, and how to present your experience in the best light to land a job. Even teens who are under the legal working age of 15 are invited to come learn about volunteering to build experience.

We will share which businesses hire when, and what openings are available. We'll also touch on the realities of teen jobs – it's not all glamorous, it's called "work" for a reason! Our panel of local business owners will be answering your questions and sharing stories to help you prepare for your job search. We will also feature some HR representatives who will offer tips for interviewing and writing a resume. Register via NP Community Pass online.

TEENS: email your questions for our panelists to:
smaisch@newprovidencelibrary.org.
All questions are due by Monday, March 4 .
